LINERS WILL GET WARNING BY DIVERS

Germany Makes a Strong Concession

BERLIN ISSUES ORDERS

HEREAFTER GERMAN SUBMARINES WILL GIVE OPPORTUNITY TO PASSENGERS AND CREWS TO ESCAPE

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Ambassador von Bernstorff has notified Secretary Lansing, on instructions from Berlin, that the German government will accept the principle that passenger liners should be warned before being attacked by submarines.

Ambassador von Bernstorff's note agrees that liners will not be sunk without warning unless they attempt to flee or resist. This policy had been accepted by Germany before the Arabic incident. The note was received with satisfaction at the state department, and was taken as a disavowal of responsibility for the sinking of the Arabic, and as it has become well established that the submarine which sunk the Arabic was itself sent to the bottom soon after its attack on the liner, the German version of the tragedy will probably never be known. Chief Justice White, who today called upon Secretary Lansing, said that this is the greatest diplomatic achievement in a generation.
